

Is This Seminar Experience Right for You?

Answer the questions
on the following slides
....and you'll know:

Question 1:

- Are you energized and fulfilled by meaningful work?

Question 2:

- Do you want to know how to become a successful, paid speaker, workshop presenter, author, &/or entrepreneur especially in the K-12 and higher education markets?

If you wonder, "What if I want to work outside of education, i.e., in the corporate, government, or non-profit sector?", click here.

Question 3:

- Do you have a positive outlook on life?

Question 4:

- Do you have a message, technique, strategy, or passion that you want to share with others (within education or beyond)?

Question 5:

- Are you ready to grow and expand the options and possibilities in your life?

Question 6:

- Do you want to make $$—and (possibly) even leave your current position in order to be a full-time speaker, presenter, consultant, author, and/or coach?

Question 7:

- Do you want to have an impact on—i.e., make a difference with—educators and ultimately, the students in today's college, high school, middle school, and elementary classrooms ?

Question 8:

- Does it matter to you, your family, and/or the causes you believe in and support whether you are financially successful?

Question 9:

- Are you currently a teacher, professor, principal, trainer, administrator (or some combination) and you see yourself as entrepreneurial?

Question 10:

- Do you have a strong work ethic?

Question 11:

- Is your income below where you want it to be and so you are (at least partially) motivated by money?

Question 12:

- Are you poised for the laws of attraction to work for you?

Question 13:

- Do you want to make a positive difference via speaking, writing, consulting, or coaching with teachers (including professors & instructors), administrators, students, counselors, aides, or other school and college personnel ?

Question 14:

- Are you open to being coached to “step up” and play a bigger game?

Question 15:

- Do you have at least a B.A. or B.S. and most likely a master's degree or higher?

And the bonus question:

- Do you have what it takes?

If you're wondering, "Hmmm. Do I have what it takes?" then do the following....

1. Write out what you think you bring to this opportunity.
2. Ask some of your family, friends, &/or colleagues (the honest & supportive ones) what they think about this opportunity for you.

3. Think about what you want to accomplish and how you want to make a difference

- During the next year
- Over the next 5 - 10 years
- In the lives of others.

You probably now know the answer to “Do I have what it takes?”

However, if you are still wondering, just sign up for the free 15-minute phone consultation. Let me help you decide if this is the right time and the right opportunity.

If this workshop is meant for you,
then next year, you will be making similar comments to the ones from the 2007 Make a Difference
workshop participants:

"This seminar knocked my socks off! I can't believe how focused and in tune with what I need to do I became over the week. After this week, I will get out of my own way and get on with what I most want to do!"

- Rhonda D. Birnie

“In this workshop, we were given a structured opportunity to think deeply about “the possibilities.” For those of us who are educators, this was foreign! We received clear, concise, quality information about every aspect of creating a business that will draw on our strengths. The words on the page are not adequate to describe what happened this week for me and the other participants.”

- Pati Falk

“Thank you for a workshop that opened the doors to worlds of possibilities that I had never even thought of. I have the sense that anything is possible—not just a glimmer of hope but instead, a view of a whole new landscape and horizon for my future!” The enthusiasm and excitement of the participants was contagious and electrifying! I feel like I have 22 brand new friends and am closer to the three I already knew well!”

- Corrine Weiser

